AT PLYMOUTH

Northville Will Help Celebrate the 4th of July.

THE NORTHVILLE BALL CLUB WILL PARTICIPATE THEREIN

By Playing With the Murphy, Wasey & Co. Nine of Detroit.

And Now Once More the Dove of Peace Hovers Over Both Cities.

When Plymouth first advertised her 4th of July celebration this year, it was understood that, inasmuch as the business men and town people were not in that it was the local affair of three or four individuals for just a ball game and horse race and therefore the Northville ball club got ready for a game and a little fire cracker celebration of their own here at home, in no wise however as an opposition to Plymouth's doings. Within a day or two it has been learned that Plymouth business men and the town people to some extent had "got together" and were into the harness, all pulling together for a big and a general good time, and after looking the matter over thoroughly the Northville boys prepared a schedule whereby they would arrange to play the Murphy, Wasey & Co. ball game in Plymouth on that day instead of here. The proposition was readily accepted and every thing is now arranged for the event to take place at home.

There was still another more important thing besides this for the Northville boys to forge their game here even after they had admitted advertising it and it would have been postponed anyhow, no matter whether any other arrangement had been made with Plymouth or not. "Jack" Heilway, one of the prime movers in the Plymouth celebration, and in fact all other good things, has been taken to the Flint asylum for treatment, as many people are aware and there are but little hopes for his recovery. He was nearly as well known, and quite as much a favorite here as in Plymouth. He was one of those good natured fellows who "wear their heart on their sleeves" and consequently had never accumulated money to any extent. His friends have not only already placed funds in the hands of the physicians for his care and treatment but now propose to turn over all the net revenue of the 4th of July celebration for the same good purpose. Northville people are never in the rear when there's good to be done, or fun to be had, and it is quite safe to say that they will turn out en masse to do honor to the nation's great day in Plymouth and assist in the worthy cause.

IN THEIR HEADS

Is Where the $2.50 a Month Saginaw Bicycle Turns.

Of long ago a number of our local wheatmen, and would-be's, who did not possess a bike, were all excited by circulars posted in town announcing "new bicycles any make for rent at $2.50 per month by Frank Robinson, Saginaw." In order to get these wheels the applicant had to send his name, reference and $2.00, the latter to apply on the first month's rent. Like people in all the other towns where the bills were posted a dozen or more of Northville's young men poured in their dollars. Of course they didn't get a bike, but they did get eight shillings' worth of experience. The man Robinson had a millionaire-in-four-days scheme and but for the interference of the postal authorities the scheme would have proved a winner. In order to get the bills posted the hotel or business place to whom the posters were sent were offered 150 letter heads and 150 envelopes all printed up in "elegant" style, on receipt of nineteen cents. This scheme also worked in many cases, but those who tested it were simply centesims. Postmaster Downer should receive the credit of the capture as he "bit" on the bait to catch the thief and notified the postal authorities to get the man.

THE 5TH MICHIGAN.

Their Annual Reunion Here July Third.

The annual reunion of the 5th Michigan Cavalry and also that of Co. D, will take place here next week, Friday, July 3. Jas. K. Lowden as historian will read an interesting paper entitled, "What we did thirty-three years ago today at Gettysburg." At 11:30 a pole raising will take place on the grounds of the historian and at 12:40 o'clock the veterans will be banqueted at the Park house. The regular exercises will begin at 1:30 and will end in time for a five o'clock lunch.

Many delegates, as well as a number of prominent speakers, are expected to be present among whom will probably be Gen. H. A. Alger of Detroit.

YESTERDAY'S STORM.

Lightning Did Some Little Damage About Town.

Yesterday's was just a little the heaviest storm seen in Northville for some time. It commenced about 5:30 and was short but fierce. The rain poured down in torrents and the lightning flashed about in a startling manner. D. R. Evans' house on York street was struck in the north-east corner of the upright and though not damaged to speak of the fluid did a lot of possible work creating along the right border of the wall paper, down, wires and some picture frames in the parlor. The wood shed in the rear was also touched.

A. Andrew Kach's large mill house was struck and damaged. At John Thompson's farm several cattle were injured and one killed by the electric fluid and the fire which was also injured.

A WARM RECEPTION

Was Given Rev. and Mrs. Herbener Last Friday Night.

The reception in Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Herbener held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Swift last week Friday evening was very pretty as well as a delightful affair. Mr. Edgar Thompson acted as usher and Mr. Edward Merritt and Miss Carolyn Babitt introduced the guests to the bride and groom. Although the evening was exceedingly warm and the guests numbered into the two hundreds yet for two hours Mr. and Mrs. Herbener received in a most happy manner and in the hundreds of congratulations extended to the groom and the many words of welcome given the bride go for anything their stay in Northville will be pleasant indeed.

For the occasion the rooms were tastefully decorated with pink and white cut flowers and potted plants while the dining room was profusely trimmed with white and pink tawny, ribbon and flowers. Even the ladies who served the refreshments were gowned in pink and white in keeping with the decorations and the refreshments, cake and ice cream, which they served, were also of those two colors.

Suburban News.

Oakland county Sunday school rally at Pontiac July 1.
A Holly man has traded 100 bushels of potatoes for a four weeks old pig.
The Ann Arbor Courier is out with a proclamation that the U. of M. City will celebrate the 4th of July in 1897.
Among the not far away towns that will celebrate the 4th are Orion, Plymouth, Brighton, Milan, Walz and Flat Rock.
The Trenton Visitor has been enlarged to a six column paper, speaking well for the enterprise of both town and publisher.
Editor Slocum of the Holly Advertiser was sorely afflicted with ear trouble last week rendering him for a time totally deaf.
Mrs. Carrie English-Severance, a sister of the late Clarence English for some years a resident of this place, died at her home in South Lyon last week aged twenty-one years.
A cynical neighbor deals us out the following in which the truth holds a good part: It is easier to sell a bicycle than a wagon. Men will buy stoguns and pay cash for them when they have to give their notes in payment for utensils which they must have to earn their living. They pay the retailer a hundred per cent profit on beer without a protest and then kick on 10 or 20 per cent, the grocery dealer asks. Billiards at 25 cents a game does not seem very high to them but bread tickets, 24 for a dollar, makes them grunt.

Plymouth is bound to celebrate any how and offers five hundred dollars worth of gold and silver prizes for the sports. A greased pig will be let loose to do the patriotic part and the balance of the day will be devoted to horse racing, a ball game, bowery dance and drinking lemonade, the whole to conclude with a fireworks display. The eagle will do its yelling inside the fair grounds. Admission 25c.

NOVI MOURNS

THE LOSS OF A FAVORITE DAUGHTER.

Mrs. Charles M. Wight Died Tuesday.

NOVI, June 24—(staff correspondent).—Mrs. Charles M. Wight died at her home in this village Tuesday, June 24, aged 30 years, 3 months and 25 days.

Catherine Brewster was born at Westmoreland, Cheshire county, N. H. where she resided for some years, afterward coming with her parents to Detroit where her parents remained until their death. On May 11, 1861, she was united in marriage to Charles M. Wight at Hartford, Vt., and in Nov. 1871 came to Novi where they have since resided.

Mrs. Wight has spent a very busy life. After her marriage, together they engaged in the mercantile business. Mrs. Wight devoting every spare moment behind the counter, assisting in every detail and through their united efforts a large and prosperous business was established. From early in the morning until late in the evening were spent daily devoted to business interests. Three years ago they retired from active business life, and then, surrounded by their children and grand children, began to enjoy the fruits of a busy life and it has often been remarked that Mr. and Mrs. Wight were happily enjoying their declining years. They were true companions, domestic felicity reigning supreme in the home.

For some years Mrs. Wight had been in poor health by reason of paralysis. Twice before she had been stricken with that dread disease, and when the third stroke was sustained last week Wednesday evening, all hope of recovery was given up. She lingered along in a comatose condition until the time of her death on Tuesday.

Mrs. Wight early in life joined the Congregational church, but some eight or nine years ago, together with her husband, identified herself with the Methodist church of this place. She was an active member of the Epworth League and other societies connected with the church, and always gave liberally toward every cause promoted by the church. She was generous and kind, as all times ready and anxious to lend a helping hand. Novi could not lose a more valued citizen and each one feels a personal loss in her death. Novi indeed mourns and shares with the bereaved ones a heartfelt sympathy.

The funeral service which was largely attended was held at the late residence this afternoon, Rev. W. C. McIntosh officiating. The Novi male quartette sang three selections, in accordance with a wish expressed by Mrs. Wight some time previous to her death. The interment was made in the Novi cemetery. The floral offerings were both profuse and beautiful.

The orders of both Eastern Star and the Lady Maccabees of Northville of which societies deceased was a worthy member attended the funeral in a body as well as a delegation of the Knights Templar of the same place of which Mr. Wight is a member.

Mrs. Wight leaves a bereaved husband, one daughter, Mrs. Madge Hoyle and one son, Henry, besides two sisters, Mrs. David D. Cady and Mrs. F. M. Britton of Detroit.

Base Ball News.

Saturday's ball game here between the Northville and the Detroit H. S. clubs was not real interesting because the Detroiters were out-classed at every point. The home club suffered their opponents to run up 15 scores but they could have shut them off with but two or three if they had really desired. The only particular feature of the game was Hunt's fine work behind the bat. Not only was he catching all right but his throwing to bases and shutting out several runs at the plate was surprising. The score by innings:
Innings: 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 R. H. E.
Northville 0 0 1 5 4 10 26 21 2
Detroit H. S. 0 0 0 3 2 0 0 0 7 12 17

The prettiest game of the season was that of yesterday here between the Cass club and the Northville's. The game was called at the end of the 5th inning on account of the rain when the score stood 1 to 0 in Northville's favor. The same club will play here again Saturday with the same battery for the home team. The score:
Innings: 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 R. H. E.
Northville 1 0 0 0 1 1 2

Paraded from Northville to Quincy Northville, the German and Hermit, Cass Case and Johnson struck out by German 6, by Cass 2, by Johnson 1.

Money is accumulating in the banks of London at a great rate, and the poor owners of the vast deposits do not know what to do with them. They are offered a great many opportunities to invest, but most of them do not appear to be filled with promise of future results. The money awaiting investment is said to aggregate many hundreds of millions of dollars in value.

Beware of strangers. Two well-dressed ones recently opened a photograph studio in Litchfield, Ill., and began advertising that they would take fine photos for $1 a dozen. There was a grand rush of those who wanted a good thing cheap. From far and near came men, women and children, each wanting from one to five dollars' worth. When the grand rush was over (and the good-looking "artists" had "hung up" all the merchants in town) they silently stole away with our finishing a single picture. The regular home photographers of Litchfield can now be easily recognized by the broad smile they are wearing.

"LITTLE GIANT"

Traveling Lawn Sprinkler

This is an INDEPENDENTLY INVENTED and WORKING MACHINERY. Under ordinary water pressure it projects upwards 15 to 20 feet of water and propels itself slowly and continuously in either a straight line or a circle of any desired diameter while its speed may be varied at will from 15 to 200 feet per hour.

By means of a figured dial plate it may be set to travel any desired distance. A moment suffices to change its speed from the highest to the lowest and it may be gauged to distribute a spray effectively over a swath varying in width from 5 to 50 feet, while by simply throwing it out of gear it is instantly converted into a STATIONARY sprinkler of exceptional efficiency.

The propelling force is supplied by back pressure of water in the atmosphere to revolve with force and rapidly while at the same time they throw out a fine spray of mist.

The "Little Giant" Sprinkler received the highest award at the World's Columbian Exposition, Chicago. May be seen at work on the lawn of the editor of this paper.

Epilepsy 20 Years

Cured by Dr. Miles' Nervine

A few years ago, Mr. L. W. Gallaher, was an extremely successful export manufacturer of lumber products. Attacked with epilepsy, he was obliged to give up his business. The attacks came upon him most opportunely, one time falling from a carriage, another over a fence, and often in the street. Once he fell down a shaft in the mill, his injuries nearly proving fatal. Mr. Gallaher writes from Milwaukee, Feb. 15, 1925:

"There are none more reasonable than epileptics. For 20 years I suffered with this terrible disease as high as five in one night. I had many doctors, but none of them could cure me. I had been told that Dr. Miles' Nervine was the only thing that would cure me. I bought a bottle and took it. The first day I felt better. The second day I was able to go to work. The third day I was able to go to school. The fourth day I was able to go to church. The fifth day I was able to go to the office. The sixth day I was able to go to the bank. ## CHAPTER IX—(Continued)

"God bless you, sir. If ever Charles Collinwood can serve your son, believe me, it shall be done. Heaven will reward you."

"This was Mr. Vernon's parting with the admiral. Both were conscious of a subtle, mysterious whisper, telling them it was their last meeting on earth—and so it was."

"That of Walter and Eleanor was still more brief. The young hero forced back the wild tumult that clamored eagerly to ask of her one promise to remain faithful, and pallid and calm, held out his hand, saying earnestly:

"May heaven bless you with all the happiness it has for earth! Good-bye, Ellie."

She had come weeping and sobbing from his father's embrace. The blue eyes had deepened with their briny rain, the soft rose of her cheek to a faded white, the sweet lips quivered sadly. Walter's eye took in all, yet he said only:

"Good-bye, Ellie!"

Eleanor had no voice to reply. Barling thus from the only friends she had ever known, with but a vague, unsatisfactory hope of some time, somewhere meeting them again, quite prostrated her sensitive temperament. Weeping, fainting, nearly broken-hearted, her uncle carried her in his arms back to the cabin, while Walter, with dry, burning eyes and rigid lip, descended swiftly to the boat that was to take them back to the "Hornet."

In silent grief his father took a place beside him. The word was given to cast off, when suddenly the admiral himself appeared above, leaving over the railing and calling Walter's name. He threw down a bag wrapped in a slip of paper. Walter grasped it nervously. Full well he knew the ring; many a time had Ellie brought it out to see the pearl play in the sunshine that came filtering through the bilge-boards and palm trees; but he stopped not to examine it anew, but snatched up the paper to read the brief line written there. "Hurried. Blotted as they were, no diamond in England or India could begetious to Walter Vernon, though they were only there: "I shall wait for you, Walter."

Walter's face was covered by his hands, but the straight, shapely fingers could not hide the tear that at length came pouring through them.

CHAPTER X

IVE years after the "Hornet" and "Collinwood" parted company upon the ocean, was gathered in merry England, at a famous gallery of paintings in London, a fashionable crowd—the living tide swaying to and fro, yet lingering over, some for Art's dear sake, and some from obedience to a more tyrannical mistress—Fashion—at a group of pictures which bore the mark of a new genius, whose star had but lately shot up brilliantly on the sky of fame.

Upon a seat not far from these pictures sat a gentleman, whose forehead, cheek and slouch hat nearly concealed his face and figure; only the brilliant, melancholy black eye roving restlessly over the crowd, and the glossy black moustache shading the scornful lip, were visible. There was a listless languor in his attitude that seemed belied by the keen attentiveness of his glance. Suddenly the eye sparkled in earnest attention, and quite unconsciously he bent eagerly forward. A gay party passing by floated toward him, the sound of a well-known name.

"Lady Eleanor Collinwood—pray tell me in what direction you saw her?" asked eagerly an aristocratic-looking gentleman.

"Ah, there it is," spiritedly replied a brilliant-looking girl, twisting her pearl and gold opera-glass affectingly. "You are no exception to the general rule. Viscount Somerset, the attractions of our new star outweigh all others. Were she not so lovely in character as in person, I should be jealous of her, but as it is, one must acquiesce gracefully. I give you full permission to leave us and find her. We saw her in their carriage with Lady Annabel and Sir Marcus Willoughby."

"Upon my word, Lady Isora, you are as keen and sharp as the frosty air of this November day. I assure you, I find present company agreeable enough to keep me here until we meet or overtake the Collinwoods. I have a message for Lady Annabel from the admiral, whom I met at Bath. By the way, I fancied I discovered a likeness in that beautiful girl on the canvas yonder to Lady Eleanor. This Vernon keeps so private no one knows about him. Perhaps, after all, it was a glimpse of her face that inspired him to so grand an effort."

The gay talkers chattered on, unmindful of the eager listeners behind them. At length came a stir of expectation.

"Here they come, Somerset. See what a crowd of elite follows. You'll have little chance for conversation. How wonderful is the sway Lady Annabel holds over all hearts, with her pale, spiritual face and gentle dignity! See the Duke of B— is talking with her. Have you ever doubted she might be a duchess any day? But never was wife so faithful and devoted to a husband's inemery as she. How she must have loved him!"

"Duchess! Yes, she might have had her choice of two or three coronets at the least. Everybody knows how our best and noblest men have sued in vain. She wins almost as much admiration as her daughter now."

"Hush, they will hear you! Good afternoon."

"A fine day, Lady Annabel. I have a word for you from Bath."

The muffled figure bent forward yet farther. How the eye glittered with a lustre feverish and unnatural!

"Lady Annabel Collinwood, Eleanor's mother."

At the very name came the flood of old emotion, sweeping away the breast-work that for five years of strenuous toil, of stupendous exertion, had been closely guarded, lest a single wave should overleap the restraining barrier.

No wonder Walter Vernon—signor Vernon! he had allowed the Italians to call him, and the name came with his name to England—no wonder he gazed with breathless interest as the group advanced, to see for the first time Lady Annabel Collinwood!

He could have selected her from a crowd of ladies as fair and graceful as she—a slender, pale-faced woman, with a well-bred, quiet grace, deep, mournful eyes that, like Eleanor's, blue and sunny, but dim and dawning the mid-night sea, carrying with her a nameless, invisible and yet potent atmosphere of refinement and purity. This he saw at first, but a second look showed him flashes of light and radiance over the dimness, and making the eye resplendent, waves of rich thought breaking over the symmetrical features, and glorifying them with light and shade of eloquent meaning; a rare and freedom, but wonderful and magical when they came, erecting into beauty the lips that were Eleanor's own. He felt at once the spell by which Lady Annabel still swayed all hearts, although more than forty years had passed over her smooth, fair forehead. Shining brightly upon the duke's arm, but her attention was given to the young visitor, who was relating in his lively way the meeting with the courtiers abroad.

The tall figure and massive head of the noble duke concealed the complete wig behind, and Walter was obliged to wait until Lady Annabel and her companion turned to the pictures before he beheld her for whom his heart had sighed to long.

Ellie was only sixteen when they parted upon the far-off Pacific. Five years, replete with the important change from girlhood to womanhood, had passed—would she seem the same? His beating heart nearly suffocated him as Walter once more gazed upon Lady Eleanor Collinwood.

Ah, the relief!—it was still his Ellie, though the youthful grace and beauty had ripened into matured perfection—though the slender form had grown more stately, and the girlish diffidence had merged into a calm, self-possessed dignity—a well-bred grace that the island experience could never have given her. Still the soft, blue eyes wore their guileless look of pleading innocence; the sweet lips dimpled with the very smile poor Tom had so often compared to the first sunbeam that glistened through the cloud over the sea, when the "Petrel" lay a wreck among the reefs.

How swiftly his pulse leaped, his eye burned!—Would that smile ever beam for him again? Not a breath of intelligence had passed between them since their parting; for all he knew she might have forgotten his very existence. He could test it speedily. And then, with jealous rage, the unknown artist turned to her companion, on whose handsome face so plainly was written his devoted admiration. There was a manly, high-bred air about him that pierced poor Walter like a sword. He was good, he was noble, he was worthy of her—that could be read at a glance. No wonder she listened so graciously to his animated words.

With a stifled groan, Walter turned away. Duke, marquis, noble lord—whatever he was, he had a right to offer his homage and suit; but for the plebeian painter, there was there any hope, any plea, whereby to win the favor of that high-born aristocratic mother, even though Eleanor herself were true to that voluntary promise—"I will wait for you!"

The black folds of Lady Annabel's dress swept across his feet, and while the hot blood mounted his cheeks, Walter bent his head, as though his presumptuous thoughts were laid bare before that sad, dark eye.

Then a single word in Eleanor's well-known voice came to his ear—it was hurried, agitated, vehement. So well he understood every tone of that bewitching voice, he knew something had startled her, and yet she had spoken but one word—"Mother!"

"What is it, my love?" asked Lady Annabel, turning at once where her daughter, alternately flushing and paling, stood before the famous pictures that had won so much attention. They were evidently champion pictures, representing the same scene by daylight and at midnight—a high, steep point of land, jutting out into the sea, whose surf beat in frothy petulance against the reef. The feathery palm-tree canopy and gorgeous vines whose brilliant blossoms lay like garlands over the no more plainly than the intense blue of the over-arching sky. Nature was inexpressibly lovely, but the gazer's eye was caught and riveted by the human figures. A young girl, graceful and beautiful, was seated in a like a queen upon her throne, and beside her, nearly at her feet, reclined a youth whose countenance was partially concealed as he was looking up eagerly into her face, which wore a wild, sorrowful, yearning look, as her eyes and extended hand pointed to the far-off line where sky and water met. Nor one could gaze upon the picture and not know the whole was not yet comprehended—the story not half told.

CHAPTER XI

IS companion was dark in the background—a dim sky and stars showing faintly the outline of embowering trees, but upon the rock, instead of its queen, blazed a bonfire that luridly lit the foamy sea, and gave a ruddy gleam to three figures waiting near—the youth and maiden and tall, grave man, who were all gazing off with a wild intensity of expression that gave a gloomy look to every face over the water.

"Ah, the pictures," said Sir Clement Willoughby. "I have looked at them full an hour before, to-day. They are thrilling, are they not? I must seek out the artist; he will be an honor for any man to know him. That midnight is superb!"

Eleanor stood with wild eyes that could not drink in eagerly enough the old familiar scene. Now the blue orbs kindled joyfully, and again the tears came welling over them.

"Oh, Walter, Walter!" cried she, in a tone of anguish that startled all and thrilled one heart with joy.

"What ails you, Eleanor?" asked her mother anxiously.

"Oh, mamma, take me home, and let us come alone. I must see the pictures alone."

The ladies and gentlemen gathered around her looked astonished and embarrassed.

"The mother said," said her mother gravely, "we do not understand you, you owe the company some word of explanation."

Eleanor struggled for composure, and dropping her veil over the flushed cheek and tearful eyes, said more reluctantly:

"I was lately surprised. It is our island home, mamma, and that is Walter and Mr. Vernon and myself. Oh, those well-known scenes—it breaks my heart to go back to them, and yet to know nothing of the friends who shared them with me! It was Walter who painted the pictures. Oh, I am sure it was Walter! I must see him—I must find him."

Lady Annabel turned hastily to the picture, while a look of pain and annoyance swept across her face. She was evidently revolving some subject carefully in her mind, for after the first swift glance she dropped her eyes to the floor.

Sir Clement Willoughby was re-examining the pictures, more especially the first one. His eye wandered questioningly over the graceful form of the youth at the feet of the island queen, and when he turned to the other it was to catch what knowledge he could from the side glimpse of the boyish face.

Horses Will Remain

The horseless age is a long way off. It is out of sight and is likely to remain so, notwithstanding the arrival of the bicycle and the motor wagon. When the reaper was invented pessimists foretold the starvation of the agricultural laborer. The sewing machine was bitterly fought by people who saw nothing in store for the seamstress. The world today knows the results. It is true that electric street railways have dispensed with the service of many thousand horses and that the bicycle has decidedly injured the heavy business, and yet it is a fact that the export trade in American horses is making giant strides forward. The exports for 1905, just completed, are $2,000,000 in value—about twice that of 1864. Europe will keep on buying American horses, and the engine which at home has survived the competition of the steam railroad and the trolley line will hold its own with the "bike" and the horseless wagon. Horses will be cheaper, just as watches are cheaper now than formerly, that is all.—New York Journal.

Poured Water in His Boots

The Rev. Leonard E. Worth of the Baptist church has begun a suit for divorce from Elvira W. Worth in Oklahoma. The clergyman alleges that his wife asked him to deed all of his property to her and made threats that if he did not she would not live with him, but would make it hot for him all his life. On one occasion, he says, she filled his Sunday boots with water.

Brotherly Love

Love is the only recognizable element of power in this world. Every one who has grown beyond childishness of heart and mind acknowledges that the only thing which makes life worth living is the good we can do for others.—Rev. C. J. Wood.

"Jayson Brown" of Kansas seems less eccentric when you analyze it, and discover that it is only a diame fool way of writing "James Samuel."

ILLINOIS DEMOCRATS

Name Altgeld for Governor, Oppose Cleveland and Declare for Free Silver. The Democratic state convention of Illinois declared for the free coinage of silver and renominated John P. Altgeld, of Chicago, for governor by a unanimous vote. Gov. Altgeld in his speech denounced Cleveland's administration as tyrannous to Democratic principles. He argued in favor of free coinage at a ratio of 16 to 1, and called the St. Louis convention "Mark Hanna's trust." The financial plank of the platform is as follows:

We demand the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver as a standard money at the ratio of 16 ounces of silver to 1 ounce of gold of equal fineness, with full legal tender power to each metal, without waiting for or depending on any other nation or country, and the delegates from this convention to the national Democratic convention are instructed to use all honorable means to secure a similar declaration by said national convention, and to support only such men for the presidency as are in full and pronounced sympathy with these principles. We are also opposed to the contraction of the currency by the retirement of any part of the outstanding treasury notes.

PARAGRAPHIC CHRONICLE

Two girls of the Ohio Normal university, Ada O. Blackwell and her friend, and dressed in men's attire entered the room of Miss Kuhn, a student. She was so badly frightened that she is not expected to live.

Eugene and Emmet Shedd, brothers, fought a duel with revolvers at Chicago. The latter was shot in the left breast and will die. For some time there has been a rivalry between them as to who raised the best breed of game chickens.

The convention of the International Printing Pressmen's association at Chicago changed its name to the International Pressmen's and Assistants' Union of North America. Detroit was chosen as the place of meeting for the convention of 1907.

Grass Hayter and Miss Emma Collins, of South Zanesville, and Miss Lucella Evans, of Zanesville, were drowned in the Maskingum south of Zanesville, O., while trying to cross the river in an old raft which filled with water and sank.

It is estimated that 20,000 people were drowned by the tidal wave on the island of Yesso, the northern part of Japan, which accompanied a succession of frightful earthquakes, lasting about 24 hours. Several coast towns were entirely swept away.

Chauncey M. Dreyfus has stated that four experiments will be made at once with hot water motor, which certain officials of the New York Central and Westchester, and Albany and Westchester, believe will revolutionize travel on railroads.

An ambulance attempt was made to wreck the Pacific express on the Lake Shore road at a bridge near Newburgh, N. Y. The car was placed in such a position that when struck by the engine they would tear up the track. A man discovered the obstruction just in time to prevent the wreck.

Three excursion trains with 5,000 people, employees of the Pennsylvania railroad shops at Fort Wayne, Ind., started for Rome City, on the C. & I., to spend the day. When near Keokuk, Ill., one of the trains broke in two. Sam C. Henderson and C. F. Miller were thrown from the rear platform and killed.

The mother of the emperor of China is dead. The dowager empress of China, Tsou-Hsi, was born in 1834 and became the wife of the emperor, H-Tehou, who reigned from 1850 to 1861. His son, Tsai Tehou, reigned from 1861 to 1875. Upon his death the present emperor succeeded with the title of Kuang Hsu, being then three years old. The dowager empress was a power in China up to the time of her death.

Dispatches from Bulawayo show that the revolt of the natives in the Umfolozi district of Matabeleland is of the most serious nature. The bodies of 30 or 40 murdered whites have already been discovered and patrols have been sent to warn the settlers who have been ordered to the laager at Fort Salisbury, which is itself considered to be in danger. The Mashonas have joined the Matabeles and the situation is constantly growing more grave.

A dispatch from Paris says that an international commission of husbandry including delegates from France, Germany, Belgium, Austria, Sweden and Switzerland met at the ministry of husbandry and adopted a bimetallic resolution. The resolution called upon the French government to propose the subject to the other countries in the international convention. M. Melne, the French premier, presided at the meeting.

Ex-Gov. William Russell of Massachusetts has issued a statement on his position relative to the Democratic presidential nomination. It is his positive statement that his name will not be presented to the Chicago convention; that he will go to Chicago not as a delegate, but as a citizen interested in the declaration of his party for a gold standard; and will urge all his friends and supporters to do their utmost to secure the nomination of William C. Whitney.

A terrible famine which threatens to plunge the most prosperous portion of Tonkin, China, into the direst misery is desolating the country. The harvest has been a failure and the natives throughout the whole of the country are in the most miserable condition. Inhabitants emigrate from the country en masse to the cities to beg for sustenance, while many others are going about pillaging and perpetrating acts of the grossest violence. Cholera is reported from the provinces, where the famine has been felt most severely, and unless relief can be given speedily thousands will perish.

Free Homes: Another opportunity for immigrants to secure homes free. Nearly 2,000,000 acres on first-class government lands in Northern Arkansas now open for settlement. # Battle-Ax PLUG

A woman knows what a bargain really is. She knows better than a man. "BATTLE AX" is selected every time by wives who buy tobacco for their husbands. They select it because it is an honest bargain. It is the biggest in size, the smallest in price, and the best in quality. The 5 cent piece is almost as large as the 10 cent piece of other high grade brands.

Mrs. J. Beal attended commencement exercises at Albion this week where her daughter, Alice, graduated. On her return trip Mrs. Beal will visit among Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti relatives.

E. L. Hall of DeWitt, Iowa, a senior law of the C. of M. has been a guest in the home of Edward Thompson this week. Mr. Hall and Miss Thompson drove to Ann Arbor yesterday to attend commencement exercises at the University.

Misses Marguerite Thompson, Nellie Lee, Maggie Blackburn, Victoria Lake, Mae Spattweaver and Myrtle Phillips are remaining at Ypsilanti this day. At six o'clock this evening they will give an "Ebb" tea on the banks of the historic waterfalls (made so by being the only island body of water in Wayne county) to half a dozen young men of the town, after which, in dew time, they will return once again to the prosaical life in the fair village among the hills.

Myron Brooks of Detroit visited at the home of his sister, Mrs. Chas. H. Johnson, 17 Main street, over Sunday. Thirty years ago Mr. Brooks was a resident of Northville and clerked in Kowalski's "Store located" where the State Savings bank now stands. The only other stores here then were Latham & Co. to their building now occupied by Carpenter & Johnson; F.M. Patten in the store now occupied by Messrs. Yerrison and Steers; and a man for the trade of Nails who had a drug store on the corner now occupied by B. A. Wheeler. Many of the old stores will call to mind these party day general stores and will also remember the orchards, unbounded underbrush and woods that was in evidence about the village which is now filled with business places, factories and residences.
