Have During the Week on the Death of Dr. J. M. Swift.

At the annual school meeting Monday night the following resolutions were unanimously adopted by a rising vote:

At the last meeting of the Wayne Co. Medical Society the following resolutions were adopted:

The man who exerts himself to do good and help to build up the wealth of his world, deserves the good will of his friends and neighbors while living, and when he is called to join the great majority, he should be held in respect and appreciation by all who have known him.

Resolved: That a copy of this memorial be spread upon the minutes of our society and that the same be transmitted to the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Thurston—Priest Wedding.

A pretty home wedding occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Priest Wednesday evening, the occasion being the marriage of their daughter Nellie J. to Mr. Charles A. Thurston.

The ceremony took place in one corner of the parlor beneath a very pretty canopy trimmed with ribbons and smiles and barked with ferns and palms.

ANNUAL SCHOOL REPORTS

Must Now Be Published in the Village Paper.

According to a law passed by the last legislature boards of education in graded schools must cause to be published an annual report each year.

Sec. 1. The people of the state of Michigan enact, That previous to the third Monday in September of every year, the board of education or board of trustees, as the same may be, of any graded school district in this state, in which one or more newspapers are published, shall cause to be published in a newspaper published in said district and designated by said board, also a full and itemized financial statement of the receipts and expenditures of said district during the preceding school year.

The Game Laws up to Date.

Every legislature adds some new feature to the game laws, making it necessary for hunters to keep posted in order to prevent getting into trouble. Here is a brief synopsis of the laws as they now stand on the statute books: Any six months resident of Michigan can hunt deer by paying a license of 75 cents; residents from other states must pay a license of $25.

IN CASE OF DEATH

The New Law Makes a Burial Permit Necessary.

The last legislature passed a law making it necessary that a burial certificate or permit be obtained from the village or township clerk before a body can be interred. Following is the law: Sec. 1. The body of no person whose death occurs in the State shall be interred, deposited in a vault or tomb or otherwise disposed of, or removed from the township, village or city in which the death occurred, until a permit for burial or removal shall have been properly issued by the clerk of the township, village or city in which the death occurs, who shall be the registrar of deaths.

ONE MAN'S SUFFERING.

The Trials and Tribulations of a Battle Creek Citizen—How He Comes to Tell This Story.

Among the incidents at the works of the Michigan Foundry Company can be found Mr. Amos Maynard, who has lived in Battle Creek for over ten years, is honored and respected by all who know him; such is the man who makes this statement, he says: "I have had kidney trouble for years and it has made my life miserable. The heavy lifting necessary to my business made me worse."

KIDNEY TROUBLES

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

I cannot speak too highly of Mrs. Pinkham's Medicine, for it has done so much for me. I have been a great sufferer from kidney trouble, pains in muscles, joints, back and shoulders, feet would swell. I also had womb troubles and leucorrhoea. After using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and Blood Purifier and Liver Pills, I felt like a new woman. My kidneys are now in perfect condition, and all my other troubles are cured.

High-school Notes.

At the school meeting it was voted to appropriate $75 toward a High school piano fund. Enough more to purchase a good instrument will be raised by the students in this room.

The High-school Oracle has been revised and will be published throughout the year in an enlarged and improved form. The first issue will be for sale at 25 per copy on Thursday or Friday of next week. The subscription price for the year (20 issues) will be 25 cents.

The following non-resident pupils are in attendance: Berl, Northrop, V. McNitt, Bruce Babcock, May Coldren, Grace Porter, May Porter, Henry Miller, seniors; Chas. Dingman, Alma Smith and Earl Banks, juniors; Alex. Christensen, Matt Greene, Lewis Vandenbergh and Lida Coldren, sophomores; Eddie Hughes, Floy Simmons, Cora Hake, Laura Andrews, Elizabeth Johns and Grace Sloan, freshmen.

The total enrollment of the school is 386, but it is expected that enough will drop in later to make the number reach nearly 350. Following is the enrollment by rooms: 1st grade, 62; 2nd grade, 34; 3rd grade, 29; 4th grade, 33; 5th grade, 22; 6th grade, 41; 7th and 8th grades, 54; High-school, 61. In the last named room, the freshmen class consists of 19 members, sophomore 13, junior 12, senior 17. The scientific is being pursued by 14 pupils: Latin-German 14 and Latin scientific 33. The fact that more than half are taking the most difficult, but in the end the most valuable course, speaks well for the school.

School commenced for the year Monday with a large attendance and plenty of enthusiasm; all seeming glad to resume once more the pleasant work. During vacation the school house has been undergoing numerous interior improvements which greatly enhance the looks of the place. The woodwork has been re-stained and painted; all the desks have been varnished, and the blackboards, with the exception of those in the High-school room, have received a new coat of black. Even the boiler room and laboratory were not forgotten in the general improvement; the walls being re-plastered where defective, and the wood-work in the laboratory painted. On the teacher's staff, the following changes have been made: preceptress, Miss Daniels; grammar room, Miss Covert; 5th grade, Miss Lancaster; music teacher, Miss Dufour. Last year, but one day in a week was given to musical instruction; this year music will be taught in every grade every day. We hope that all will appreciate this opportunity and make the best use of it.

You will find Miss Boyer at the old stand with a full line of Walking Hats, Sailor Hats and Caps.

PROTECTION!

Do You Believe in Protection? We do in Some Kinds--this kind in particular.

Last spring when the new tariff bill was formed we saw the result would be that Dry Goods would advance, as well as other things. We then began to protect our customers and ourselves against paying an advanced price this fall. We made contracts with manufacturers and handlers of dry goods to furnish us our fall supply at the old prices. The goods then contracted for are now nearly all delivered to us, and we have probably the largest stock of dry goods ever shown in Northville.

As we use this space from week to week to call attention to our wares, we take a few items each time, and now ask you to consider the matter of Dress Goods.

We offer for your inspection the choicest collection of popular priced Fabrics you have yet seen here. Goods that are strictly New This Fall, not new in this place only, but fresh from the looms. We have only one inducement out of the ordinary and that is Low Prices for the splendid designs and qualities--(that is all the inducement needed).

Our special bargains are priced at

And on any of these special lots we save you 10c, 15c or 25c pr. yd from the usual market prices.

At 15c per yard. We sell about 25 pieces of Cashmeres, Flannels, Suitings, Mohairs, Novelties, Novelty Checks and Wool Fancies. Value from 19c to 25c yd, our price 15c

At 25c per yard. We sell a large assortment of Henriettas, Serges, Plaids, Flannels, Novelty Suitings, Basket Cloth Suitings, Mohair Brocades, etc. Values from 28c to 40c yd, our price 25c

At 39c per yard. We sell some very choice goods, 45-in. Serges, Covert Cloths, Broadhead Fancies, Niagara Suitings, Coating, Serges, etc. Nearly all these goods are generally on sale at 50c yd; our price 39c yd

At 50c per yard. We sell a grand line of dress goods, fine Serges 50 in wide, black and colors; beautiful new two-toned Covert Suitings; a choice assortment of Dress Goods in patterns, no two alike, many are good imitations of goods sold at $2 to $3 yd; and we can say that many of our grades cannot be matched at less than 65c or 75c yd; our price 50c yd.

It is reported that some of our growers are discriminating against the Northville flour. All things being equal this is not good business policy. There certainly is no better flour made than that made in Northville and it should be given preference both by consumer and seller. If our Northville mills should start into retailing flour at wholesale prices there would be a "merry war" and no one would make a cent. This may be the outcome.

FALMAGES' SERMON.

LABOR STRIKES THE SUBJECT LAST SUNDAY.

From the Following Text: Matt. 11:12: "Whoever will come to me and take his cross and follow me..."

THE greatest war the world has ever seen is between capital and labor. The strife is not like that which in history is called the Thirty Years' War for it is a war of centuries. It is a war of the five continents. It is a war hemispheric.

The antagonistic forces are closing in upon each other. The Pennsylvania miners' strike, the telegraph operators' strike, the railroad employees' strike, the dynamite and the scabbers' before a general engagement. If you prefer it, escapes through the safety-valves of an imprisoned force which promises the explosion of society.

After awhile, crash goes the money market, and there is no more demand for the articles manufactured in that iron mill, and the owner does not know what to do. He says, "Shall I stop the mill, or shall I run it on half time, or shall I cut down the wages?"

There is a dead halt for a minute or two, and then one of the workmen steps out from the ranks of his fellows, and says, "Boss, you have been very good to us, and when you prospered, and now you are in a tight place and I am sorry, and we have got to sympathize with you."

But the mill-owner, getting in some new machinery, exposes himself very much and takes cold, and it settles into pneumonia, and he dies. In the procession to the tomb are all the workmen, tears rolling down their cheeks, and off upon the ground; but an hour before the procession gets to the cemetery the wives and the children of those workmen are at the grave waiting for the arrival of the funeral paccout. The minister or religion may have delivered an eloquent eulogium before they started from the house, but the most impressive things are said that day by the working-classes standing around the tomb.

That night in all the cabins of the working-people where they have family prayers the widowhood and the orphanage in the mansion are remembered. No glaring populations loom over the iron fence of the cemetery; but, moving over the scene, the benediction of God and man is coming; for the fulfillment of the Christ-like injunction, "Whatever ye would that men should do to you, do you even so to them."

Neither will the contest be settled by cynical and unsympathetic treatment of the laboring classes. There are those who speak of them as though they were only cattle or draught horses. Their nerves are nothing, their domestic comfort is nothing, their happiness is nothing. They have no more sympathy for them than a hound has for a hare, or a hawk for a hen, or a tiger for a calf. When Jean Valjean, the greatest hero of Victor Hugo's writings, after a life of suffering and brave endurance, goes into a prison and death, they clap their hands and say "Good for him!"

They stamp and kick with indignation and say, "I will have all their sympathies with me, and not with Antonio and Portia." They are plutocrats, and their bellies are inflated. They are filled with irritation and intractability on this subject.

Neither will there be any pacification of this angry controversy through violence. God never blessed murder. Well, if this controversy between capital and labor cannot be settled by human wisdom, today capital and labor stand with their thumbs on each other's throats—as they do—it is time for us to look somewhere else for relief and it points from my text to that ancient and joyful and puts one hand on the broadcloth shoulder of capital, and puts the other on the homespun-covered shoulder of toil, and says, with a voice that will grandly and gloriously settle this, and settle everything, "Whatever ye would that men should do to you, do you even so to them."

That is, the lady of the household will say, "I must treat the maid in the kitchen just as I would like to be treated if I were downstairs, and it were my work to wash, and cook, and sweep, and it were the duty of the maid in the kitchen to preside in this parlor."

The owner of an iron mill, having taken a dose of my text, before leaving home in the morning, will go into his foundry and, passing into what is called the pudding-room, he will see a man there stripped to the waist, and bedewed and exhausted with the labor and the toil and he will say to him, "Why it seems to be very hot in here. You look very much exhausted. I hear your child is sick with scarlet fever. If you want your wages a little earlier this week so as to pay the nurse and get the medicine, just come into my office any time."

After awhile, crash goes the money market, and there is no more demand for the articles manufactured in that iron mill, and the owner does not know what to do. He says, "Shall I stop the mill, or shall I run it on half time, or shall I cut down the wages?"

There is a dead halt for a minute or two, and then one of the workmen steps out from the ranks of his fellows, and says, "Boss, you have been very good to us, and when you prospered, and now you are in a tight place and I am sorry, and we have got to sympathize with you. I don't know how the others feel, but I propose that we take off twenty per cent from our wages, and that when the times get good you will remember us and raise them again."

The mill-owner, getting in some new machinery, exposes himself very much and takes cold, and it settles into pneumonia, and he dies. In the procession to the tomb are all the workmen, tears rolling down their cheeks, and off upon the ground; but an hour before the procession gets to the cemetery the wives and the children of those workmen are at the grave waiting for the arrival of the funeral paccout. The minister or religion may have delivered an eloquent eulogium before they started from the house, but the most impressive things are said that day by the working-classes standing around the tomb.

That night in all the cabins of the working-people where they have family prayers the widowhood and the orphanage in the mansion are remembered. No glaring populations loom over the iron fence of the cemetery; but, moving over the scene, the benediction of God and man is coming; for the fulfillment of the Christ-like injunction, "Whatever ye would that men should do to you, do you even so to them."

Neither will the contest be settled by cynical and unsympathetic treatment of the laboring classes. There are those who speak of them as though they were only cattle or draught horses. Their nerves are nothing, their domestic comfort is nothing, their happiness is nothing. They have no more sympathy for them than a hound has for a hare, or a hawk for a hen, or a tiger for a calf. When Jean Valjean, the greatest hero of Victor Hugo's writings, after a life of suffering and brave endurance, goes into a prison and death, they clap their hands and say "Good for him!"

But you go with me and I will show you—not so far off as showed, England—factories, banking houses, store houses, and costly enterprises where this Christ-like injunction of my text is fully kept, and you could no more get the employer to practice an unjust vice upon his men, or the men to conspire against the employer, than you could get your right hand and your left hand, your right eye and your left eye, your right ear and your left ear, into physiological antagonism. Now, where is this to begin? In our homes, in our stores, on our farms—not waiting for other people to do their duty. Here a divergence now between the parlor and the kitchen? Between the parlor or the kitchen, perhaps in both. Are the clerks in your store irate against the firm? Then there is something wrong, either behind the counter or in the private office, or perhaps in both.

The great want of the world today is the fulfillment of this Christ-like injunction that which he promulgated in his sermon Olivet. All the political economists under the archway of the heavens in convention for a thousand years cannot settle this controversy between monopoly and hard work, between capital and labor. During the Revolutionary war there was a heavy pack of timber to be lifted, perhaps for some fortress, and a corporal was overseeing the work, and he was giving commands to some soldiers as they lifted. "Heave away, there! ye heave!" Well, the timber was too heavy, they could not get it up. There was a gentleman, leaning on a horse, and he stepped forward and said to the corporal, "Why don't you get them lifted?" "That timber is too heavy for them to lift," "No," he said, "I won't. I am a corporal. The gentleman got off his horse and came up to the place. "Now," he said to the soldiers, "all together—ye heave!" and the timber went to its place. "Now," said the gentleman to the corporal, "when you have a piece of timber too heavy for the men to lift, and you want help, you send to your commander-in-chief. I was Washington. Now, that is about all the gospel I know—the Gospel of giving somebody a lift, a lift out of darkness, a lift out of earth into heaven. That is all the Gospel I know—the Gospel of helping somebody else to lift."

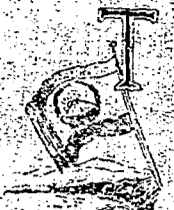

The Duke of Ossone, while Viceroy of Naples, delivered many quaint and clever judgments. The case is related where a young Spanish aristocrat named Bertrand Solus, while lounging about in the busy part of the city, was run against by a porter carrying a bundle of wood on his shoulder. The porter had called out, "Make way, please!" several times, but without effect. He had then tried to get by without collision, but his bundle caught the young man's velvet dress and tore it. Solus was highly indignant and had the porter arrested. The Viceroy, who had privately investigated the matter, told the porter to pretend he was dumb, and at the trial to reply by signs to any question that might be put to him. When the case came on, and Solus had made his complaint, the Viceroy turned to the porter and asked him what he had to say in reply. The porter only shook his head and made signs with his hands. "What judgment do you want me to give against a dumb man?" asked the Viceroy. "Oh, your excellency," replied Solus, falling into the trap, "the man is an impostor. I assure you he is not dumb. Before he ran into me I distinctly heard him cry out, 'Make way!'" "Then," said the Viceroy sternly, "if you heard him ask you to make way for him, why did you not? The fault of the defendant was entirely with yourself, and you must give this poor man compensation for the trouble you have given him in bringing him here."

PAZ FROM BOLIVIA.

THE NEW MINISTER TO THE UNITED STATES.

A Young Statesman Who Is Already a Power in His Country's Government—His Career in War and Politics in His Native Land.

HERE have been two important additions to the diplomatic corps from South America this summer, and for the first time in many years—both Peru, and Bolivia are represented by ministers resident at the capital, Luis Paz, the new envoy from Bolivia, who presented his credentials only a day or two before the president left Washington, making at the time a most felicitous speech, as the last to arrive. His credentials having been presented, he is to official duties that demand the minister's immediate attention. He has planned, therefore, to leave Washington soon, and will visit some of the eastern resorts. The first representative accredited from Bolivia was Ladislao Cabrera, who served from November, 1887, until December, 1882. After Mr. Cabrera's recall there was an interval of nearly four years during which time, and at all subsequent times when there has been no minister resident here from that country, all diplomatic business was conducted by the state department directly with the secretary of foreign affairs at Sacre. It was the hope of interesting capital and stimulating immigration and the desire to study the railroad systems of this country which the chief executive of Bolivia, President Atonzo, considers the finest in the world, that inspired Mr. Paz to resign his seat in the senate and relinquish the leadership of a great political party to accept the post of ministry to the United States. In conversation the other day the Bolivian minister, who, by the way, speaks no English yet, said: "I see just now that four people are much excited over the discovery of gold in the Klondike region. We have more gold in Bolivia than they have in Klondike, and you don't have to freeze, or starve to death in our country. There is not a stream in all Bolivia where gold cannot be washed out. With modern machinery there are vast quantities of the precious metal to be had. It is to interest capitalists here in our gold possibilities that I came. One of the greatest opportunities Bolivia offers to men of small means is the development of the rubber and cocoa industry. Many come among us to mine gold, and when they see the chances offered by the rubber fields they never go near the mines, but at once engage in the rubber business. Since the passage of our recent laws, any person can stake out a grove of rubber trees and it belongs to him." The new minister is a young man, having been born in Paria some forty-three years ago. He was brought up and educated at Sacre, the capital of Bolivia, and received from the university there, of whose faculty he is now a member, the degree of doctor of laws. But Mr. Paz was not destined to spend much time in the practice of his profession, as at an age when most young men are still in the classroom, he entered politics and soon rose to be a power in the state. For a number of terms he served as member of the lower house of the Bolivian parliament and in the cabinet of Mr. Alonzo's predecessor, he held at first the portfolio of interior, and later was made minister of war. Mr. Paz is a typical Spaniard in appearance, and is possessed of a forceful personality. When he speaks it is to convince his hearers. For the institutions of the United States, and for its people he expresses the warmest admiration, an admiration shared by the young and brilliant president of Bolivia, who has only recently been elected to that office. Mr. Paz has traveled widely in Europe, but this is his first visit to the United States, and he hopes his mission here "will bring to more intimate relations Bolivia and the United States, for which my countrymen have the greatest love and affection." The minister is accompanied by the first secretary of legation, Dardo Gutierrez, a young man of fine appearance, agreeable manners and diplomatic training, who shares his chief's enthusiasm for this country, and who confuses himself as delighted that his official duties have placed him in so charming a capital.

A FAMOUS PISTOL.

Its First Owner, Feroz, Frederick, the Great From Bohemia. Capt. Wm. P. Hogarty, of Kansas City, Kan., has in his possession an old duelling pistol which was originally owned by Josef Maria Graf von Darr, who was commander-in-chief of the Austrian army during the Seven Years' War, and one of Austria's greatest heroes. The pistol is in an excellent state of preservation, although it has been little used since its owner, in 1757, drove Frederick the Great from Prague and forced him to evacuate Bohemia.

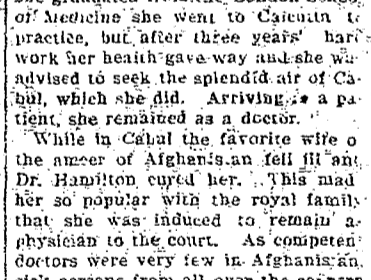

Josef had two of these pistols, and after his death one passed to each branch of his family. William Theodore Maria von Darr, a grandson, who was banished from Austria in 1848, brought one of them to America, and before his death at Quindaro, a few years ago, he gave it to Capt. Hogarty. It is inlaid with gold and silver, and artistically carved. Capt. Hogarty prizes it very highly. He is himself something of a military hero, having been decorated by congress for his distinguished bravery in the battles of Antietam and Fredericksburg—hence it is a pleasure to him to own a pistol which was carried by such a great military character as Josef Maria Graf von Darr.—Kansas City Star.

Has Had Adventures.

Any woman who engages in the practice of medicine is warranted to have an interesting existence, but Miss Lillian Hamilton, an English woman, has had rather more than falls to the lot of most women physicians.

She is now in England, where she has returned from Afghanistan. When she graduated from the London School of Medicine she went to Calcutta to practice, but after three years' hard work her health gave way, and she was advised to seek the splendid air of Cabul, which she did. Arriving as a patient, she remained as a doctor.

While in Cabul the favorite wife of the ameer of Afghanistan fell ill, and Dr. Hamilton cured her. This made her so popular with the royal family that she was induced to remain a physician to the court. As competent doctors were very few in Afghanistan, sick persons from all over the country hocked to Cabul and this English woman wrote prescriptions, and if necessary operated, for she is a surgeon as well as a doctor of medicine. Two years ago, when the ameer sent his son, Nasrullah Khan, to England on diplomatic business, Dr. Hamilton accompanied him as physician to the suite. Since that time she has had a trained nurse working under her direction in Cabul and hopes to establish a hospital with a corps of trained nurses as soon as the ameer and his wives realize the value of such help to a physician. Among other things Dr. Hamilton has introduced vaccination. Dr. Hamilton, as has been said, is now in England, but it is not likely she will remain long with such a promising field awaiting her in the land of the ameer.
