Visiting Mayor Eno Has Himself a Ball

Mayor Harvey Eno of Millington soon became Northville Moody and properly showed his executive ability to all — even as he acted as Northville Downs began his last running there.

Wielding the Northville gavel as the city's honorary head of government during Mayor Eno's five-inch tour, the fleeing politician was treated in a full round of activities in the city.

Meanwhile, Northville Mayor Eno was attending a small village in the north part of Michigan.

Mayor Eno arrived at the city hall and selected the opening of the annual rummage sale as his public appearance. He was greeted by a standing ovation.

Five Daughters
by Mildred Gerber
The school board is in a state of shock and confusion after a second-grade teacher in a local school was found dead in her classroom. The police are investigating the case as a murder, and a murder suspect has been arrested. The teacher, a young woman, was last seen alive at a school event two days ago. The school community is in shock and disbelief, wondering what could have motivated someone to commit such a heinous crime.

Harriet Hillman, a local social worker, has been working with the family of the deceased teacher. She has been providing support and counseling to the victims' family and friends. She has also been working with the police to help them with their investigation. Harriet is a dedicated and compassionate social worker who has been working in the field for over 10 years.

This incident has caused a great deal of concern in the community. Local residents are calling for a change in the school's security procedures.

LET US PRAY FOR THE PEOPLE OF CHINA

From the Optional Prayer蓓

China has been suffering from droughts and floods in recent years, which have caused widespread damage. The government is working hard to mitigate the impact of these natural disasters.

The churches in China are also working hard to help those affected by these disasters. They are providing food, shelter, and medical assistance to those in need.

Use of Wallpaper
Is on the Increase

The wallpaper bought last year would stretch around the world at the equator over 10 times.

The reasons for wallpaper's increasing popularity are not hard to come by. Manufacturing manufacturers have made available a whole new line of wall treatments and sold the merchandise at prices to fit the most modest pocketbook.

To meet the greatest possible range of individual taste, the new papers present designs to suit both traditional and contemporary backgrounds; a full scale of colors from pale pastels to the strong, clear, vibrant hues; and, for good measure, handsome techniques and patterns in plants, flowers and fruits that can be applied and the application of the product.

There are notable additions to the scrubbable plastic impregnated and washable printed papers as well as the pre-pressed and pre-painted.

For Crippled Children’s Home

Rotary Clubs Open Building Exposition

Northville Rotarians today join with Rotarians from throughout western Wayne county in kicking off a gigantic four-day building exposition with a double purpose.

On one hand, it offers hundreds of up-and-down displays of the latest in home building and design. On the other, it will raise funds for completion of a new house for crippled children in Wayne county.

The show opens today and will last through Sunday in being staged at the Detroit Race Course in Livonia.

It includes more than 140 booths, exhibiting the newest styles of modern materials for construction of new homes and for modernization. Builders and contractors from the area and west and northwest Detroit are cooperating.

The entire proceeds of the four-day affair will be turned over to the crippled children’s home, proceeds of all bidders in the draw.

The building, rapidly nearing completion at the Michigan and Middle roads site, is being erected at a cost of $29,000. The clubs need $50,000 to complete the financing.

The December Northville club is one of the most active in promoting the show projects for the past several years with the idea that a combined effort will help this division of the club to raise the money needed for the home.

President Leland Smith and past chairman Art Scherler have been prime movers in the work. Other club members who head committees for the show are Carl Clark, general chairman, entertainment; Lee Eaton, finance, Bill Giebeiler, ticket chairman, and Scherler, publicity, and Scherler, bookkeeping.

A large list of prizes awaits visitors at the exposition, highlight of which will be a special event each day at which a ploy will be given away.

In addition, the exposition will feature a wide variety of catering for children.

First Businesses in Northville Were Mills and Farms

By Mike Pon

As part of their research for "Northville's First Mills and Farms," historians Shalond McKarnes and Janice Whelan visited several sites throughout the city to record the history of Northville's early industries. The first factories in Northville were established in the 1820s and 1830s and included mill and farm operations.

In 1826, Abe Markham and several Northern Lumber Company owners built a mill on the north side of Northville. The mill was soon regained through the construction of a grist mill.

The "momentary" loss of income by the mill operators led to the establishment of the "Markham's Mill" in 1835. The mill produced flour, cornmeal, and other food products.

The "Markham's Mill" was later purchased by a group of mill owners, who expanded the mill's operations to include the production of lumber and other building materials.

The mill was finally closed in 1867, but it served as a significant landmark in Northville's history. The mill's structure and equipment were preserved as a museum for future generations to learn about the city's past.

In recent years, the mill has been restored and opened to the public as a museum and learning center. Visitors can explore the mill's history, learn about the city's early industries, and gain a better understanding of the role of mills in Northville's development.

Constitution Vote

To resolve all the issues in 1952 to rewrite the constitution of Michigan, the state government charged with the task. Whether to call a constitutional convention will take place on the November, 1952 ballot.

Democrats have made their positions known on the issue. In the last 8 years, locating state and local taxes, and tax distribution and reorganization of the legislature.

The latter, signed in 1952, is one of the new actions of the political parties and will, in effect, determine the makeup of a constitutional convention.

Under another section of the constitution, an amendment to the tax law is one of the three major issues facing the state constitutional convention. Michigan is already fighting for another battlefront, according to the governor.

The convention created the state constitutions, including the 1835 constitution (11 states) representing 1848 and the 1850 constitution of the state. The Stanloes, in 1850, chose to proceed with the procedure for electing delegates to a constitutional convention.

For the first time, the vote for the convention, though unanimous, carried little enthusiasm. You could tell that by the lack of interest in the issue. Some people said the issue was worth investigating. Councilman Reed pointed out that the issue would be a bond issue, and in one trip to our office, a member of the track operation the city would not have a bond issue.
